Please join Sandra Tsing Loh writer, radio personality, and actress for a discussion of her latest hysterically funny and painfully real memoir, The Madwoman in the Volvo(title is linked). Cheryl Strayed, author of Wild says "The Madwoman in the Volvo reads like a weekend away with the best friend you ever had—blazingly vulnerable, scorchingly smart, and funny as hell. It's both an intimate portrait of one woman as she approaches menopause and a full-throated cultural howl about what it means to be female and forty or fifty or sixty something in America today. I was filled with recognition as I read the book's first pages and flooded with gratitude by the end. . . . A beautiful book you're going to miss after you've read the last page." (Cheryl Strayed). Don't miss this rare opportunity to read and discuss The Madwoman in the Volvo with the woman who wrote it. Julie Goler, Honors English teacher and book group facilitator what will moderate what will be a fun and lively discussion.
